The attitude of Daniel and his three friends was to _____ but without _____.

How far have they gone in submitting to their assimilation into Babylonian culture?

In verse 8, Daniel resolved what?

How does one remain an “inner” _____ to the life
and culture in which they are outwardly and fully involved?

Jesus speaks about being faithful in lesser things so that you can be trusted with greater things – How does this principle apply to Daniel and his three friends?

At what point is compromise possible for you? Where is it impossible?

Where does Daniel draw the line?

Why does Daniel choose this area as the moral/theological line over which he refuses to step?

- a) _____ laws of the Old Testament?

- b) _____ overtones of the food from the king’s table.

- c) An _____ of Nebuchadnezzar’s covenant overlord-ship.

- d) _____ gets the credit.

Who is orchestrating the events of your life? How are you responding?

What did God “give” Daniel in verse 9?

What was Daniel's secondary strategy (vss 11-14)?

In verse 17, we read (for the 3rd time) that God _____ something to someone. What was it?

Chapter 1 of Daniel drives home the point of who is really in _____.

How do you witness to -

a) The nature of God?

b) The gospel?

c) The meaning of life on earth?

Think through the following questions:

- (1) How often has the culture around enticed me to commit some sin?
- (2) How often have the luxuries of the world tempted me to disobey God?
- (3) How often have I allowed my desire for position, power, or fame to consume me?
- (4) How often have I put achieving my personal ambition before serving God?
- (5) Where do I draw the line?
